THE GRAND

Post Elections and Installations---Gen. Kountz's Tour Ended.

HEADQUARTERS BULLETIN.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 26, 1885. Dropping into National Headquarters this morning to learn if there had anything of importance occurred since last week of which the readers of THE TRIBUNE could have the benefit, we found Adjt.-Gen. Alcorn engaged in opening an unusually heavy mail. 'These letters are all about Grant," he said,

"urging the Commander-in-Chief to start a fund for his relief."

"That is 'the old soldier' of it," your correspondent replied; "always ready to aid and comfort their comrades in distress. Their bands are as open as their hearts are large." "Yes, and Grant has a firm hold on the affections of the whole people," Comrade Alcorn replied, "and particularly of the Grand Army. The old chief probably would decline the help of his comrades as he has already declined to accept a proposed pension and the magnificent offers of William H. Vanderbilt. But these letters, so full of comradeship, could not fail to be gratifying to him could he see them." These letters are from nearly every Department, and are increasing in numbers daily. Comrade Hall, in a recent visit to Headquar-Comrade Hall, in a recent visit to Headquar-ters, was accompanied by J. M. Goodwin, of Allen; Chap., J. H. Farson; O. D. George Proc-of the War Department during the first years of the war. Mr. Goodwin's reminiscences of those peculiar times are of a most interesting character. He is the gentleman who, at the request of Edwin M. Stanton, son of the great War Secretary, inspected the private effects of the Jeff Davis box, afterwards returned by Seccontents of that box were of a rich and racy character, as Gen. Sherman, in his late letters, county. One died, and was buried by Forsyth Post before transportation came.

Under the new law the State of Ohio approdier who dies in needy circumstances. Honorable burial is thus secured for the men who

Dr. Lauterman, of Believne, O., Post, and Comrades Clark and Moses, of Canton, O., were among the recent visitors at Headquar-

Copies of Past Commander-in-Chief Beath's Blue Book have been received at National Headquarters, containing in brief all the needful lore for the guidance of the Order.

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF'S TOUR. Wednesday morning of this week, he proceeded to Richmond, accompanied by John C. Linehan, Commander of the Department of New Hampshire. They were received at the following depot by Captain B. C. Cook, Department Commander of Virginia, and comrades Walker and Sweeney of Phil. Kearney Post, who drove them to the principal points of interest in and about the city. Among the places visited were Belle Isle, Gen. Lee's residence, Libby Prison, Jeff. Davis's mansion, and the graves of Gens. A. P. Hill and J. E. B. Stuart.

In the evening Phil. Kearney Post met at "Veteran Hall," and after transacting some routine business, threw open their doors and received the visitors in the most cordial man-

After introductions to members of the Post, they sat down to an elegant supper, prepared for the occasion. Among those present were Gen. Cooke, Commander; Capt. Spitzer, Adjutant, and Capt. Lane, Quartermaster of R. E. Lee Camp, C. V. The profusion of eatables and drinkables was discussed after the true soldier fashion, interspersed with anecdotes, were present, and dwelt upon the prowess of the old veterans of the Blue and the Grey, during the days of 1861 to '65. Remarks were also made by Commander Cooke, Quartermaster Lane, and Capt. Spitzer, of Lee Camp, Commander Linehan, of N. H., and Department Commander Cooke after which the meeting Commander Cooke, after which the meeting adjourned.

Commander Kountz, who reached home on Saturday, speaks most enthusiastically of his trip, and the cordial welcome which has been accorded him on every hand,

Sherman, Fredericksburg: Since my last letter the following Posts have been entered on the muster-roll of Iowa: Daniel Hill, No. 372, at Stratford: Kit Carson, 373, at Ashton; Ciarke R. Wever, No. 374, at Randolph; Dayton, No. 375, at Dayton; —, No. 375, at Westerville; Chas. J. Pixley, No. 377, at Rockford. At the last-named place I was assisted by Comrade Harry Shaw, of Nora Springs, and the comrades from the Post at Floyd drove through the drifts 16 the Jeff Davis box, afterwards returned by Secretary McCrary of the War Department. The ford is composed of a splendid lot of "vets," and I predict for them great success. They start in with 35 harter members. The official roster is as follows: ommander, W. R. Walker; S. V. C., A. McElroy; For the Winter of 1884-'85 permits to the National Soldiers' Home at Dayton were given to twenty-two old veterans from this city and S. M., M. D. Martin; Q. M. S., J. M. Wiley. Other points are preparing for muster. As you see, the work moves in Iowa yet. On the evening of Dec. Under the new law the State of Ohio appro-priates $35 for the burial of every Union sol-stalled the officers of "240" at Tripoli, where the good comrades arranged for the comfort and entertainment of the public, and, notwithstanding the bitter cold weather, a pleasant time and good turnserved the Nation, even if in life they have to out was the result. On Saturday, Jan. 3, we pubstruggle along for the pension that never liely installed the officers of "104" at the church n Williamstown, where the Post went in a body to attend the services. The church was most beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion. an i the good citizens turned out and tendered a welcome to the boys in blue. Several other points are preparing for public installation and Camp-fires. So you will observe that, notwithstanding the extremely cold weather and the piling, drift-ing snows, our videts are posted, and the bivounce fires of the Grand Army are burning brightly in the Hawk Eye State.—Henry Dick, Maxwell: The following officers of James H. DEPARTMENT OF MICHIGAN. Mrs. S. A. C. Plummer, in "The Loval Left," the Relief Corps department of the Veteran, draws this fine picture of the typical mother of Union sons: THE PIONEER MOTHER.

The lessons of patriotism and hatred of wrong aught in our school were re-enforced with ten-fold vigor at home. The household head, herself a born ruler, was the sworn foe of tyrants in general and slaveholders in particular. Her hand and eye were upon everything about the little farm home. She was at once her children's severest critic, ten-derest friend, and stanchest champion. Never did stronger plant find more congenial soil than this Eastern woman set down among the charred stumps of a new civilization. In '56, when the battle cry was "free schools, free soil, free men, Fremont and victory," this pioneer mother, whose steps seldom went beyond her own gate, except to church, continued to thoroughly saturate her children with enthusiasm for the great grand, free Northland and its institutions. She filled us with burning zeal for the country and its flag, and with an undying contempt and hatred for slavery. When "Uncle Tom's Cabin" came out in book form we secured it and read it as Mrs. Stowe wrote it at the kitchen table by candle-light; and while we read our hearts burned within us. Two of this truly American mother's sons served three years

The Rights of the Ballot.

G. A. C. asks if a member of the Post can, out of spite, keep a soldier who has a good record and an honorable discharge out of the Post? Can there be an appeal to the Department Commander in such a case? G. A. C. can find just such a case cited in OPINION XV. NOVEMBER 6, 1871. 1. Ballot-a personal matter-should not be used 2. Opportunity for stating objections to a candidate should be given.

Has a comrade the right to black-ball a worthy discharged soldier on purely personal grounds?

1. The mode of election by ballot gives to every comrade voting an unquestionable right and op-portunity to express his opinion. The ballot should e conducted so that no comrade's vote should be known, and he cannot, from the nature of the case, be called in question for exercising his choice. No prosperous condition since its organization.

The evening of the 9th of January, Silas A.

Strickland Post, No. 13, had a public installaanswer to his own conscience. 2. The Regulations prescribe that before the vote s taken an opportunity shall be given to any comrade to state his objections to the candidate; and if comes probable that he will not be elected; or, if invalid objections are presented, after friendly discussion, they may be removed. Raising a Family.
